As First Nations we are recognizing that learning to manage and report on performance is a big step on the path to self-governance. Can we articulate, agree on and then achieve our own goals rather than those imposed by others? The focus in this workshop is on reporting on performance to community members.

Learning to manage and report on performance is a big step on the path to self-governance. Financial information is one aspect of performance, however financial statements only give part of the performance picture. There are many other equally if not more important aspects of performance like:

- ↪ Have our goals been met compared to what was planned?
- ↪ Do community members judge our performance to be satisfactory?
- ↪ Are our values and culture reflected and supported by our programs and activities?

This workshop will introduce the Aboriginal Performance Wheel and take participants through the core principle of performance reporting in First Nation environments. Subjects covered include:

- What is performance reporting, and why it matters
- Dimensions of performance
- Reporting on performance – getting started
- Identifying the kinds of information to be reported
- Creating performance reports
- Using performance reports

Registration is limited to 25 participants. Register now!
