On-line Management Certificate Courses

Do you want to upgrade your management skills? Do you want to build your knowledge in strategic planning, communications, human resource management and other management practices that support high performance? Become more knowledgeable in comprehensive community planning and performance measurement & reporting? Do you want to know how to plan for and resolve ethical issues in your organization?

If the answer is yes to any of these questions, then you want to register in one of AFOA Canada's Aboriginal Management Training on-line courses focusing on the key skills and knowledge needed of management in Aboriginal communities and organizations. Contribute to your professional development and register for a Management Certificate course.

On-line courses are a convenient and inexpensive way to upgrade your skills and knowledge. You will get close personal support from our course instructors and mentors. When you successfully complete the course, you will receive a Management Certificate in Aboriginal Management Training.

The on-line courses available are:

- Community Economic Development (AFOA 1)
